Allysa Coogle is an excellent student at T.K. Stone. She participates in a variety of activities including soccer, swim, archery, FCS, Student Council, Beta, and Y Club. She is also an all A student. She enjoys playing the piano, baking, and playing soccer.

Allysa says the most important lesson she has learned from her involvement in these activities is to never get up. She loves T.K. Stone because of all the caring teachers and staff. She is looking forward to pursuing a career as a doctor so that she can help people.

Allysa's role model is her grandfather who survived three heart attacks and never gave up. He has taught her that you should never let your limits keep you down.

Allysa is a leader in class. She is friendly and eager to learn. Allysa is always one of the first students to volunteer in class. She has an amazing work ethic and it has been a pleasure to teach her. -Mrs. Shearer

Allysa is a hard working, thoughtful, responsible, respectful, and intelligent young lady. She can often be seen in class helping out students when they are stuck on a topic, be it science or something else. Allysa can always be counted on to try hard and do her best on an assignment. She adds great insight during class discussions. Allysa is a great group member and can be counted on to be a leader in the group when needed. Congratulations on being March's student of the month Allysa! - Mrs. Davis

Allysa is such a considerate, caring young lady and I'm honored to have her in my class this year! She is a good role model and motivator for other students in class and they look up to her for that. I don't think I've heard her raise her voice in anger to any of her classmates or to others in the hallway. Allysa takes being a student seriously and has become involved with other activities this year, like swimming, and has done really well. I'm always so happy to see Allysa because I know she'll have a huge smile on her face!
