Rationale:

Cooper's SLC is a NASC (National Assoc. of Student Councils) member. Each year at least 6 students have attended a LEAD Conference and it has helped guide us to being a consistent National Council of Excellence. This three day conference, although expensive, is one of the best conferences that I have attended as a teacher and the students come back armed with ideas, improved leadership skills and new experiences. Many of the ideas have been put into action. Most importantly the students are mixed in with others from all over the country and get to experience ideas different from their own. Additionally, two students completed student leader certification training at the conference and now have the opportunity to earn scholarships. We would like to continue this tradition by having more students attend.

As an adviser, I am committed to providing the students with chances to learn how to become effective leaders both through their own trial and error experiences, modeling and opportunities to observe other successful student leaders. The LEAD conference is a wonderful opportunity to meet with students from all over the country and not only to grow personally, but also to grow as future leaders. The bonus is getting to visit our nation's capital.

Thank you for considering this opportunity for Cooper High School students.
