Revised 05/2011

Rationale for the procurement of the services of the University of Louisville and Tiffany Dillard-Knox, Acting Director of the University of Louisville Debate Team to facilitate the operation of the Wilson Wyatt Debate League

Working with the University of Louisville, JCPS, and the Archdiocese of Louisville, Wilson Wyatt and his wife Anne established the Wyatt Debate Endowment in 1993. It's mission is to "create, carry forward, and improve" interscholastic debating and to support the development of student-debaters and debate coaches.

The Endowment is administered through the Louisville Community Foundation and is executed by a six-member board. Locally, the endowment funds the Wilson Wyatt Debate League which hosts debate tournaments, instructional sessions for students and coaches, and provides support materials to teams. The endowment also provides limited monetary support for local schools to join state and national organizations; to participate in national tournaments; and to send students to debate camps across the country each summer.

The Wilson W. Wyatt Debate Advisory Board is responsible for selecting the entity that is responsible for the day-to-day operation of the league. JCPS's role is to administer the funds used to operate the league and to pay Tiffany-Dillard Knox for her services. In order to do so, a contract for the procurement of professional services must be completed. Mrs. Dillard-Knox will receive $12,000 as the Director of the Wilson Wyatt Debate League for the 2014-2015 school year.

Tiffany Dillard-Knox has been determined by the Advisory Board to be the best person to fulfill this role, due to her fifteen years of experience as a college debater (1999-2000), graduate assistant for UL debate program (2001-2004), Assistant Debate Coach, UL (2005-2010), and as Acting Director of Debate (2010-present). Mrs. Dillard-Knox assisted with the operation of the Wilson Wyatt Debate League during her tenure as a Debate Assistant with the University of Louisville.

High school debate in Jefferson County also receives some support from JCPS which pays public school coaches a stipend. Although many schools do not participate, there is money for every high school in the district to employ a debate coach. However, the majority of monetary support for the debate league is funded through the Endowment, not from JCPS' budget.
