*Rationale: The students of the music program need access to computers with music software to compose, and arrange music as needed. The computers also provide the students with a valuable research tool when preparing for auditions, listening to recordings, and producing projects that are on par with the technological needs of today's musicians. In addition to just computers, the large monitor will allow students to view their marching band drill as it is written and will allow them to present large projects to class in high quality resolution. The large screen will also GREATLY help the directors when writing drill and composing music for student performances.
