Pahokee will be forced to give up the state football championship it won just last month, the School District of Palm Beach County confirmed Thursday.

The Florida High School Athletic Association told the district that Pahokee must vacate the Class 1A state championship it won in December due to its use of an ineligible player.

The school district said it will appeal the FHSAA's decision once a formal ruling has come down, which is expected by the end of the week.

"This is a disappointing turn of events that will be felt throughout our entire community," Pahokee principal Michael Aronson said in a letter to parents that was posted on Twitter. "This ruling should not detract from the accomplishments of our students on and off the field."

Aronson said a data entry error resulted in the fifth year of play for the ineligible player, who competed in the state championship game.

Under FHSAA rules, high school athletes may only compete in four years of play.

Pahokee is coming off its best season in recent history, beating Baker 34-21 in the Class 1A state championship game on Dec. 8.

It was the seventh state title for the storied program and first since 2008. The Blue Devils also beat Glades Central in the Muck Bowl for the first time since 2008.

"I can be at peace now," first-year head coach Orson Walkes said after the title game.

Walkes is Pahokee's third coach in as many seasons. Blaze Thompson, who won a pair of state championships in 2007 and 2008, stepped down after the 2014 season.

Pahokee alumnus and former Wake Forest and NFL cornerback Alphonso Smith replaced Thompson, but after leading the Blue Devils to a 8-2 record in the regular season, Smith was removed and ultimately fired following a Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office Investigation.

I'm a diehard GC fan Maroon & Gold 4 Life. But I got to say this one hurt to see this community and those players lose their championship like this. Keep your head up . We will always count it as a championship out here. GC Raider 4 Life!!!

Did the player not know how many years he played?

Sad for the team I'm sure, but you have to play by the rules.

Wrong and false. If you're going to dig for information, let it be facts and not rumors. Get it, got it. Good. It's always the racist one with no profile pic trolling.
