The Building Healthy Superheroes program is creating and implemented by the Norton Children's Hospital. The program at Slugger Field includes activities surrounding safety, wellness and general information on hospital and career choices. Designed specifically for kindergarten students in mind, they will learn how to make healthy choices as well as the importance in doing so.

The curriculum will meet Practical Living and Physical Education/Health Education standards. Teachers will implement pre- and post activities in their classroom to connect the events to real world applications.
