Lesson Plans

KOSSA Standards OD 1 Explore a potential health science career path in at least one of the following health care services: diagnostic, therapeutic, informational, or environmental.

Students will have the opportunity to speak with University of Louisville Medical School faculty, staff and students. Students will tour the campus, participate in a medical simulation demonstration and sit in on a medical school class.

This opportunity will allow students to explore the possibility of becoming a medical professional as well as compare and contrast the University of Louisville School of Medicine with other University programs. Students will be able to make an informed decision with this information toward their future academic and professional careers.
