CENTER FOR ECONOMIC EDUCATION

The CEE promotes the basic skills needed to develop and maintain a budget, understand credit, make wise investment choices, and effectively use the banking system.

ACCORDING TO FINRA'S NATIONAL FINANCIAL CAPABILITY STUDY,

KENTUCKIANS' FINANCIAL LITERACY RANKS
AS THE 7TH WORST
NATIONALLY

ONLY 36% OF KENTUCKIANS REPORT THAT THEY ARE SPENDING LESS THAN THEIR INCOME

WHAT WE DO

The Center for Economic Education promotes financial literacy and economic education through direct training and partnerships with teachers at all levels (K-16). We encourage educators to incorporate economic and financial literacy in their own classes by providing them with resources and curriculum support.

FEATURED RESOURCES

EconEd Link

EconEdLink maintains a large library of online interactive tools for teaching economics, personal finance, and entrepreneurship in grades K-12. These interactive tools include videos and game-like activities.

Virtual Economics

This interactive tool helps educators understand the most important concepts in economics and personal finance while finding the right lessons to teach at specific grade levels. It offers 1,400 lessons organized by grade level, concept, national standards or state standards.

Teaching the News

An online resource that helps teachers connect today's headlines to the concepts of economics and financial literacy. Articles are updated several times a week.
