A three-time individual state champion at Caldwell County HS, Talley was the nation's No. 1 ranked recruit by GolfWeek Magazine. She was named Kentucky's Ms. Golf in 2008 after winning her first KHSAA state title with a 10-under par 134 (65-69). Talley would have won four-consecutive state titles but was disqualified at the 2009 state tournament after self-reporting having signed an incorrect scorecard (she finished six-shots up on the field that year). She closed out her prep career with back-to-back medalist honors at the 2010 and 2011 state tournament. She qualified for the U.S. Open in 2011 and 2012, and won the U.S. Women's Amateur in 2013. She went on to star at the University of Alabama, winning the NCAA Division I Women's Championship in 2015.
