THE PEOPLE'S HOUSE

Since it was first built, the White House has always remained open to the people. These days, of course, not just anybody can just walk right in the front door, but in centuries past it was quite a different story. President Jackson used to leave a block of cheese out for people to come by and grab a nibble if they were in the neighborhood, and during the Civil War, Abraham Lincoln housed Union soldiers on the ground floor.

A TORCH WITH A VIEW

It took them ten years to raise the money to complete the Statue of Liberty. One way they did it was to build the statue's head and set it down in the middle of Paris, where they charged people money to go up to the top and look out over the whole city. Then they sent the armpit and the torch to America, set it up in Madison Square Park, and charged people money to go up and look out over all of New York. At the time, it was the tallest point in the city.
