

EHS Student of the Month – October 2022

The EHS student of the month for October is Lucas Wheatley. Lucas is a senior at EHS who is also a full-time student at ECTC in the SEEK program studying in the Diesel Technology field. [Securing Educational Excellence in Kentucky (SEEK) students are those individuals who live in a county that has no Area Technology Center and who choose to pursue one of 11 designated technical programs. Students attend ECTC during their senior year, during which they fulfill established high school graduation requirements as well as complete college-level technical courses.] While at EHS, Lucas has been involved in the following activities: FBLA (serving as president and vice-president), EHS Boys Golf Team and the EHS Bass Fishing Team all four years, selected to participate in the American Private Enterprise System (APES) seminar, and also selected for Lincoln Trail Youth Salute. In addition to his school activities, Lucas also enjoys trap shooting, golfing, fishing, and working in his garage fixing or building things. Although Lucas has not completely decided on his plans after high school, he is considering attending an 8-week lineman training to prepare for a career at Nolin RECC.

Here are some comments from his teachers:

Mr. Hinkle (AP US History teacher last year): Lucas is a hard worker who never complains and is well-liked by his peers. He is very personable and a person of high moral character. On top of this, he can tell you most anything about bass fishing! I really enjoyed having Lucas as a student in my AP US history class last year!

Thomas A. Csonka (ECTC Professor): Mr. Wheatley shows up early to meet with his lab partner in order to keep ahead of workload. He is respectful and a welcome asset from his school.

Mr. Druin (Art Teacher last year): Lucas goes above and beyond what is expected of him. He will often go out of his way to offer help or assistance to other students and faculty members. His actions and work ethic should be the standard of the EHS Student body.

EHS is proud to recognize Lucas Wheatley as the October Student of the Month.
