We are in full test preparation mode.

We had decided that Renaissance would be our vendor for the elementary screener and diagnostic for the Senate Bill 9 reading requirements. iReady was unable to meet the requirements for the diagnostic piece, but that has recently changed. iReady is now a recognized screener and diagnostic.

We are having a lot of discussions concerning professional development for next year. With the HVAC project, we will have additional days for staff training and preparation.

As we transition to Renaissance, we are also reviewing our existing digital platforms in the district in a cost/benefit analysis approach. We have identified some pieces that we will probably not be renewing for failing to provide benefit to a greater population.

Jr/Sr High is in the laborious process of setting up the master schedule – a process in much need divine intervention.

The Jr/Sr High benchmarks are complete. Results were not what some teachers wanted to see, but there is a pretty high bar in Dawson Springs.

Elementary is preparing for their scrimmage the week of the 24th.
