To whom it may concern:

This letter has been written to confirm that the following are sole source products:

School-wide License (Part # SITELICENSE)
Master Student License (Part # MASTERLICENSE)
Acellus GoldBook Pro Computer (Part # GOLDBOOKPRO)

These products are licensed and distributed exclusively by the International Academy of Science.

The International Academy of Science maintains all copyright privileges for these products and these products must be purchased or licensed directly from the organization or an affiliate organization. There are no agents or dealers authorized to represent these products and no division of the International Academy of Science has any right of sub-license to offer these products.

These products work with the Acellus Learning System, a computer based blended learning system designed to improve test scores, comprehensive study and cognitive thinking skills for students grades K-12. Each student program is individualized to meet that student's needs. Acellus uses a proprietary technology called Deficiency Diagnostics to assess the individual learning needs of each student, and then deploys Customized Personal Instruction, another technology proprietary to Acellus, to fill-in holes of understanding and re-teach missing concepts unique to each student.

The International Academy of Science warrants that no other products are available for license or purchase with all of the same characteristics as the above-named products and there is only one price for each of the above-named products because of the exclusive distribution and marketing rights.

If you desire additional information, please contact us at 816-229-3800.

Sincerely,
