11/19/2024 11:32:45	Parent/Guardian	August 6 seems so early!	I like that it's a little later	Again this seems like a good start date, a little later. I'm not sure when this puts the end date. An end date I'm comfortable with is going a week past Memorial Day. I would prefer starting on August 13th as a top choice if we have to go past Memorial Day with a start day of the 20th. I am also comfortable not having early release days if it helps the calendar fit August 13th or August 20th- a week past Memorial Day.	See above

11/19/2024 11:57:29	Parent/Guardian	This is too early and summer is still in full swing. My child doesn't need more half days, this is not realistic for the real working world	Same as calendar 1	This is a good compromise. Allowing kids to have more summer fun, but also more time in school during the school year. Less half days is appreciated for working families	This is closer to what we did in New England with school starting after Labor Day. But it does extend the school year past Memorial Day

11/19/2024 12:03:20	Teacher	very early start date; teachers come back for PD in JULY; no need to be JCPS aligned--most of our students' families attend private schools that do not follow the JCPS calendar; love early end date	reasonable calendar- all early release Fridays seem unnecessary at this point.	reasonable start date; end date late; all early release Fridays seem unnecessary.	late start date (more summer!); reasonable end date; all early release Fridays seem unnecessary. 11/19/2024 12:03:23	Parent/Guardian	Our family prefers starting back to school much later if possible. We enjoy travel and fun summer days together. Starting later in August is preferable to us, even if there are fewer early release days.	Calendar 2 vs calendar 4....2 starts a week earlier (which our family does NOT prefer), but only finishes in May 2 days earlier. We would prefer having that extra week with our child in August (on calendar 4....even with fewer early release Fridays) and finishing the week out in May	I do not want to send my child back to school for 1 Monday in June. Seems unusual to have to come back for 1 day that week	My preferred calendar is #4. Later start in August is ideal for our family. Also, with a late start, this one doesn't actually go too far the following spring, as it ends in May. I don't think the extra early release Fridays of some of the other options help our family that much.
11/19/2024 12:06:36	Parent/Guardian	Start date is to early. The majority of our families and teachers don't have siblings or children in JCPS.	Calendar two has a great start date. Not to early, not to late. It matches more closely with Catholic Schools and Oldham County.	Maybe the start date is pushing a little late?	Starts to late!
11/19/2024 12:12:53	Teacher	No thank you. Too early to start.	Same.	I like calendar 3 but the last day for students in June should be avoided.	Love it.
11/19/2024 12:13:57	Parent/Guardian, APTA Board Officer	The alignment with the JCPS calendar generally makes sense to me. Additionally, having a constant, non-variable "set" schedule for Friday releases is very helpful for planning vacations, extracurricular activities, etc. I also think this is helpful in helping to prevent the "summer slide."	I dislike the variable early release Friday schedule that is proposed.	I dislike the variable early release Friday schedule that is proposed.	I generally dislike the idea of having set scheduled school days in June. I would prefer to start earlier in August than continue into June.
11/19/2024 12:15:13	Parent/Guardian	It's so early. I felt so blessed to have the bonus summer time with our boys. It was even better that most were back to school and we had the city to ourselves! I hope families with two working parents could plan ahead for child care as I know this year's surprise was tough for some
11/19/2024 12:15:47	Parent/Guardian	I am not in favor of such an early start date. I feel like each year school starts earlier and earlier. August 6th is just too early. It doesn't bother me if JCPS starts this early, as I do not have children in that school system. In the past, I have had my older children (private schools) start later than my younger children at APS, so personally I don't feel our start date has to coincide with JCPS start date. My kids and I enjoyed the extra time off together this past summer after the mold issue.	No issues with this option. I think this is a good option because it gives the kids an additional week off for summer break and they still keep early release Fridays while only going 3 additional days longer.	Do not like the end date of school being June 1st. I would prefer this start date more if adjustments were made to get out of school on the 27th.	I like this option. The kids would get an additional 3 weeks off for summer and still get out on 5/29, which is great. It allows more time for the kids to enjoy summer break. It also still provides early release Fridays.
11/19/2024 12:17:30	Parent/Guardian	Too early - feels like kids barely get a summer going back that first week
11/19/2024 12:17:48	Parent/Guardian	The closing date is so early that there aren't usually camp options for kids yet.	This seems ideal	The end date is getting too late and shortening summer. Having the last day of school be on a Monday feels like a lot of people would skip it.	The sporadic full day Fridays are weird and will be confusing and difficult to keep track of.
11/19/2024 12:19:52	Parent/Guardian			There are NO camps or child care available this week. This would require parents to take time off work to bridge the gap from summer care to the start of school. 11/19/2024 12:23:49	Parent/Guardian, former calendar committee member	Too early!	Perfect!! 11/19/2024 12:25:55	Parent/Guardian, Council Member	Like getting out prior to Memorial Day. Do not see a built-in conference day in the middle of the year when it would be beneficial to teachers and parents. This option does include early release Fridays which I think are helpful to staff to have meeting and collaborate. More hours in the classroom are good. Gives you flexibility if there is inclement weather.	Do not like getting out after Memorial Day. No conference day in middle of the year. Do like the early dismissals on Fridays for staff meetings.	My least favorite due to the end date. I worry people will not come back to school on Monday, 6/1. No conference days built in. If you do choose this option, I would push Fall Break back a week (later in October 10/6 - 10/10). It is currently too early in this option. We do not need to match JCPS. I do like that most Fridays are still early release days for staff.	Like the late start date. No conference days built in. Like that we are not going into June. If you choose this option, I would suggest moving Fall Break back a week (10/6 - 10/10). It is currently too early in this option. Again, we do not need to match JCPS.

11/19/2024 12:38:34	Parent/Guardian	I believe it's way too early. My oldest gets back from her summer camp 2 days before school starts. Just makes the summer feel so short.	This feels like a sweet spot between all the proposed calendars
11/19/2024 12:39:31	Parent/Guardian	Kids go back way too early. Beginning of August is still summer time.		Good compromise.
11/19/2024 12:47:09	Parent/Guardian	Concerned it will result in too short of a summer given the extra days this year due to the variable instruction year schedule we're currently on for teachers, staff, and students	Effective balance with variable flex days, teacher work days, summer vacation schedule includes all of July and a few days in August vs. option 1. Decent balance of Early Release Days, with end of school/closing days in May.	Balances number of early release days with the later start date, and provides more teacher work days, yet trade offs with the later start to summer and possibility of school further into the first week of June due to make-up days resulting from cancellations due to weather	Perpetuating the variable instruction year schedule is a concern as this is reserved for issues that are beyond the administration's control. While there are some benefits, we haven't yet been through an entire year to know the impacts, and adding as a second year will make transitioning back to a standard instruction year schedule more difficult.
11/19/2024 12:50:11	Parent/Guardian			I wish that I knew the student end date that corresponds with this calendar, because it could be my 1st/2nd choice if the kids get out early enough. 11/19/2024 12:51:45	Teacher	Such an early start- would have to start back in July making childcare a concern	This feels like the normal timing from previous years but still always comes too fast-- I do prefer the kids be out by Memorial Day and the earlier release Fridays are helpful for us bc of travel sports. Plus, the kids love getting out earlier on Fridays		This seems to be the best of all worlds. We have a later start date and a decent end date, as well as some early release days in the mix
11/19/2024 12:54:23	Parent/Guardian	This is way too earlier. I hate it.		I would much prefer this back to school date but do not want the kids to go to 6/1	Least favorite option. I think it would push end date too far out and the breaks feel like the come almost too soon based on this year

11/19/2024 12:58:14	Parent/Guardian	Starting on the 1st is insane and gives the kids no summer break, plus its not like they are getting out any earlier	Similar to calendar 1	too similar to our previous years calendars and why not give the kids a longer summer	This years longer summer due to the roof issues was amazing. The kids responded so well and loved the extra down time. They have both communicated to me that they would do away with early dismissals entirely if it meant they could have a longer summer
11/19/2024 13:06:59	Teacher		It would be great to adjust the first three Fridays' to ERD to create a consistent Friday schedule for the year. This change wouldn't require adding any additional days. The adjustment would only involve three hours across the first three Fridays in August.
11/19/2024 13:09:55	Parent/Guardian, Community Member	I feel as though august 6th is too early for the kids to start back to school. I prefer options that start us later and still have school end in May.	It's nice to have a slower start to school and have the first two weeks in August to get prepared. I also like that this schedule does not keep us in school in June.	I do not like this schedule because it keeps in school in June.	I like this one because we have a much later start date and still get out of school in May. 11/19/2024 14:06:55	Teacher	As a teacher, this one is so difficult to navigate our own kids. We are the last school standing that doesn't allow teacher's kids, so we are always having to navigate different schedules. This would mean we would have to go back in July when our kids don't go back until the middle of August. Please do not make us go back in JULY!	It more aligns with what we have done traditionally and does not have us going back in July. It does not allow teachers to be a part of their own children's school start times and has teachers going back the first week of August when many schools where teachers kids are start the middle of August.	Gives the first week of August off for teachers who have children at home and don't go back until the middle of August. Great time off for the summer and able to travel that first week of August... it moves the calendar a little later -- getting out the 1st of June but also not going back to late August... August is such a true summer month -- so love the idea of pushing the calendar back a little to give more time for summer to run into August.	It is the best of all worlds...allows for a late start time and summer to be pushed back in August but lets kids out in May still. It allows for more family time and time for traveling for both students and staff. It still allows for staff collaboration. Families can take advantage of late summer vacations and activities, which are often less expensive and less crowded after mid-August. Ending before June allows families to plan for longer summer trips or enroll their children in enriching camps or programs that often start in early June. With regards to spending and facilities, starting at the end of August minimizes school sessions during the hottest part of summer, ensuring students are in air-conditioned environments during cooler months instead.

11/19/2024 17:14:10	Parent/Guardian	Calendar 1 to me is the worst choice since it is the earliest back to school date. It is so much more preferable to have extra time with my child in summer than having so many early release dates. The early release days only make scheduling harder for parents. Having more summer days with our children gives us a more manageable school year and time.	I prefer the latest start date possible with the fewest early release days. So this calendar is not preferable.	I prefer the he calendar with the latest start date and fewest early release days. This is not the calendar I prefer but is better than calendar 1 that starts at the beginning of August.	This is my FAVORITE calendar. 11/19/2024 22:11:36	Parent/Guardian	This start date is so early. I would prefer more time in August with my kids and have them in school longer in May. Summertime is precious with my kids. This calendar is also very similar to JCPS. One of the reasons my family was attracted to this school is that Anchorage School can make independent decisions. Aligning with JCPS isn't attractive to me.	The start date feels like a compromise! I like a middle ground that doesn't start too early and doesn't go too late. This Calendar also doesn't have early release dates in August. That is attractive to my family as a dual working home.	I don't like the built in "teacher work days" on this calendar. Realistically, I don't think many of the students will come back for school on Monday 6/1. The end date is too late.	This calendar reminds me of this year. I feel like there is a "we are behind" mentality this year because we started later. Kids weren't really into the swing of school and then we have fall break and have to start all over again. I'd rather ease into the school year than hit the ground running and have a hand on the kids backs.

11/20/2024 11:03:46	Parent/Guardian	It's too early to start. I would rather dial back early release dates and have more summer days. There are only limited number of years that we have these carefree days with our kids. Let's extend and enjoy.	Mid-month...not too short or too long of summer. Perfect balance.	I don't have strong feelings between calendar 2 vs. calendar 3. Both make for a nice and longer summer. It's a good balance.	I feel this is too long to be out. 11/20/2024 12:29:54	Teacher	Starts too early. Fall & spring break do not align with OC. Please match at least one.	This is my favorite option with the start/end date + early release days. Fall & spring break do not align with OC. Please match at least one.	I like the start date for students, but hate that teachers come early and the end date is so late in the summer. Fall & spring break do not align with OC. Please match at least one. Absolutely hate this calendar.	If we start late, please push back fall break. Fall & spring break do not align with OC. 11/20/2024 12:30:03	Parent/Guardian	Way to early	Still early	Better	This is a good time
11/20/2024 12:50:14	Parent/Guardian	Would be nice if breaks could align with high schools so babysitting would be available
11/20/2024 13:17:09	Parent/Guardian	An August 6 or 13th start date would be similar to years past and would hopefully allow students to be out for school by June 1st. These start dates are also similar to those of other schools in the Louisville area, so that siblings attending other schools can have similar start and end dates. These start dates are also similar to those of other schools in the Louisville area, so that siblings attending other schools can have similar start and end dates.	An August 20th or 25th start date would likely result in students having to end school later in the year (within the month of June) and the schedule would differ too much from other schools in the Louisville area that siblings attend. This could greatly affect families with children at multiple schools in terms of childcare, work schedules, planning vacations, etc.	An August 20th or 25th start date would likely result in students having to end school later in the year (within the month of June) and the schedule would differ too much from other schools in the Louisville area that siblings attend. 11/20/2024 13:33:14	Parent/Guardian	The start date is too early and teachers should not be back to school in July.	Coming back for 2 days after Memorial Day will likely result in very low attendance those days	The last day of school on a Monday will likely result in low attendance	This option gives students and teachers the longest summer- which is my preference. Con: Summer slide may be greater and result in a hard start back. I also think ending the school year on a Monday will result in very low attendance.
11/20/2024 13:46:33	Parent/Guardian	Very early start date	Good option with balance of start and end date and allows if extra days need to be added to still be out by June	End date is too late	Start date is a little late but manageable. End date could be too late if days get added
11/20/2024 13:55:30	Parent/Guardian	Too early start date	I like start date.	I think it's not a good idea to end school on a Monday.	Too late of a start date
11/20/2024 13:56:36	Parent/Guardian	No need for early release Fridays.	No need for early release Fridays.	No need for early release Fridays.	No need for early release Fridays.
11/20/2024 14:05:50	Parent/Guardian	I like that it aligns with JCPS as I have a child that follows this schedule.	I would be fine with this schedule, I like the idea of going back a week later and feel like it would be okay to be out a week later.	8/20 is way too late of a start and makes childcare difficult for working parents when most students that help in the summer are already back in school. I also don't like ending in June.	I definitely do not like this schedule, this is so late to go back, and while I do like later release Fridays, this would make finding childcare extremely difficult for working parents the last few weeks when most students that help in the summer are already back in school. I also don't like going into June.
11/20/2024 14:13:27	Teacher	I would just prefer a later start date.		Is it possible to NOT have the Teacher Work Day on January 5th or April 6th and then have the students last day on May 29th?	Scheduling wise, I prefer that every Friday be an early release Friday.

11/20/2024 14:38:22	Parent/Guardian	The start date is way too early, more hours than any other calendar, least amount of teacher workdays	Good mix of all options	Least favorite	Least amount of early release days, great!
