KASA New Superintendent Training

Takeaways to help
Board and Staff

Turnover in Superintendents continue to be high. Was asked again to speak to the onboarding group at their training at KASA headquarters on July 9. 22 new superintendents were in attendance.

Again this year, the KHSAA sponsored lunch for the group, and was able to share a little insight as to the current legislative leanings around athletics, as well as between session updates. In addition, discussed liability issues complicating play and practice, particularly during the summer.

General Commentary

KASA has been a great partner with the KHSAA and getting in front of this group each year for so many years has been very healthy for the relationship between the organizations. And as always, superintendents always would prefer athletics not be a day to day priority (problem wise), but when it is a problem, they want to know they can count on us for information and support.
