2026-2027: Looking Ahead

As we prepare to welcome students and staff back for another exciting school year, Grandview Elementary has been busy making the most of the summer months. From construction progress to instructional planning, our team has been working diligently to ensure we are ready to provide an outstanding learning environment for every student.

Building Updates

Construction is entering its final phase, and we are thrilled to see the finish line in sight. Throughout the summer, our custodial and maintenance team has worked tirelessly cleaning, painting, organizing classrooms, and preparing the building for students and staff. Their dedication has transformed our school, and the building looks incredible.

We are also excited to share that new classroom cubbies have been installed in all classrooms in grades 2–5. These additions will help improve classroom organization while providing students with dedicated storage spaces that support daily routines and independence.

As the final construction items are completed, we look forward to beginning the school year in a refreshed learning environment that reflects the pride our staff takes in Grandview Elementary.

Instruction and Learning

This year marks another important step forward in our implementation of High-Quality Instructional Resources (HQIR). With another full year of experience behind us, teachers are prepared to build on what they have learned during upcoming professional development days to strengthen instructional practices, refine collaborative planning, and continue improving student learning outcomes. Summer planning has focused on curriculum alignment, strengthening intervention systems, and ensuring that all students receive rigorous, engaging instruction from the very first day of school.

Staff and School Culture

Building a positive culture remains one of our highest priorities. During our August professional learning days, staff will engage in collaborative professional learning focused on strengthening relationships, maintaining high expectations, and continuing to foster the supportive culture that makes Grandview Elementary a special place for students, families, and staff.

We are looking forward to welcoming both returning staff members and those who are new to the Bellevue family as we begin another school year together.
